Kevin Salvagni is a licensed general contractor with over 35 years of construction industry experience. He has acted as an expert on more than 50 occasions in both quantum and technical matters.

Kevin has provided expert testimony in both Federal and State courts, as well as in multiple depositions, arbitrations and mediations. He has supported clients in disputes across a range of building envelope related issues.

Kevin's background in general contracting includes project management, program management, both detailed and conceptual estimating, quality control, and property loss assessment. He has managed the complexity of construction projects ranging from pre-project planning, estimating and schedule development, to cost control and multi prime contractor or subcontractor management.

Kevin's expertise includes specialized interiors and exterior envelope systems. He has experience in managing general contracting firms with those specialities and regularly supports clients with disputes, ranging from construction claims and property loss to project management matters.

Kevin is licensed in Florida as a certified general contractor, inspector and speciality contractor and is licensed as a general building contractor in California. He is an honoured chartered member of the American Institute of Constructors and a member of the Construction Management Institute of America and the Association for the Advancement of Cost Engineering.
