Terry Orr is a highly respected forensic accountant with over 40 years of experience. He has been retained as an expert on dozens of engagements.

Terry has delivered expert testimony in commercial litigation and arbitration regarding accounting, financial, economic, valuation, and damage quantification issues. He has led complex global and domestic engagements for clients in diverse industries, including the construction, healthcare, hospitality, energy, technology, and manufacturing and distribution sectors.

Terry has over 25 years of experience as an auditor and audit partner in international public accounting firms. He has assisted clients with the often-contentious issues arising in disputes, such as accounting misstatements and malpractice, civil and criminal fraud, breaches of contract and fiduciary duty, single business enterprise and alter ego, lost profits, and lost value.

Terry's expertise and insight have proved essential in resolving a wide range of matters, including fraud detection, investigation, remediation and prevention, Foreign Corrupt Practices Act (FCPA) investigations, and litigated disputes. He regularly works with private equity firms, public company boards, management, and outside counsel and has provided consulting services in both auditor defense and plaintiff matters; as well as acting as a neutral accounting arbitrator.

Terry is a certified public accountant – licensed in Texas, a Chartered Global Management Accountant, a certified internal controls auditor, and a certified construction auditor. He is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants as well as their forensic and valuations services section and certified fraud examiners.
